COUNCIL ON THE MOVE.They Are Raising Revenue,
Opening Streets and Enforcing Ordinances.THE BRECKENRIDGE ADDITION APPROVED.

Our City Dads met in regular monthly session at the City Hall Monday night. It was the warmest and longest meeting since the installation of the new board. Mayor Barry, in his usual happy style, called the body to order and Clerk Towser read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved.

The question of raising sufficient revenue to meet the current expenses of the town was the first important business to come before the body. Councilman Mattingly read an ordinance whereby there is a provision set forth to license all business and professional men. This matter was referred to the Finance Committee which will report at the next meeting.

Councilman Fobler read an ordinance relative to property owners complying the streets. He said they should pay the town something for using the ground. Mr. Hudson sanctioned the matter and was in favor of requiring the landowners to project on the streets to be removed from the line. This matter was referred to the Street Committee for investigation.

Mr. L. T. Reid was present and asked that the street running along by Oliver Creek be opened. He offered to do the work free of charge to the town if they would establish the line. Mr. Hudson will make the survey and the street will be opened.

The Finance Committee handed in the approximate estimate upon the cost of procuring water works which was in the neighborhood of $12,000. Mr. John L. Morten was before the body and said as soon as the franchise for water rights was offered, there were parties ready to make an offer to erect a plant. It was decided to advertise in the local mechanical journals for bids on water works and electric light plants.

Mayor Barry spoke in behalf of the Standard Oil Company for the privilege of erecting buildings near the railroad depot for the purpose of carrying on their business upon a more extensive scale. He suggested to the Councilmen that they grant this company this privilege of building in the street but Hudson immediately offered an objection, saying the railroad would grant them the right to build on their ground and the town would not be allowed to allow the Standard Oil Company to build in the street and force other citizens to remove their buildings.

A plot of the Breckenridge addition was placed before the Council and was accepted. The Breckenridge Canal Coal Company, through its manager, Mr. H. V. Harris, donated the streets to the City. This is quite an acquisition to the town and what company will be the prettiest portion of the city.

After allowing claims, accounts and other matters, the council adjourned subject to the call of the Mayor.

THE HACKNEY HORSE.

G. N. Lydman Has A Valuable Imported Hackney At His Farm Near Irvington.

G. N. Lydman, the proprietor of the Mr. Maple Stock farm near Irvington, has made some valuable additions to his breeding stock. All his stock have wintered well and are in fine shape. He has an imported Hackney, which is a comparatively new and very valuable breed. The Hackney is the accepted type of carriage horse. It is a style of horse which has style, action and ability to pull a heavy vehicle at a fair rate of speed. Its popularity is established and it ranks among the highest as a breeder.

Watch for Mr. Lydman's ad of his fine stock in our next issue.

HIGH AND WELL DRAINEDSecond Street Being Extended and New Buildings Put Up.A COMMERCIAL CLUB
TO BE ORGANIZED.

The past week has marked quite an improvement in the lower end of town. The Hawserville road has been turned so as to take it out of the low ground through the Breckenridge Co.'s property. The new road is high and well drained and by the time it is opened for traffic, it will undoubtedly be in splendid shape, and will materially improve the property lying alongside it.

The city authorities are working on the extension of second street from the Catholic church to the railroad shops, and, when completed, this street will be of great benefit to every person employed at the shops.

The two cottages being built by the Breckenridge company are nearing completion, and will probably lead to the construction of other buildings on the new subdivision in the near future.

The next thing in order is the formation of a Commercial club to assist our city fathers in bringing outside capital here. The matter has been frequently suggested by different parties. Now let them get together and perfect such an organization.

DEATH OF DR. FRANK.

Physician, Farmer And Prominent Mason Succumbs To Death Wednesday, March The 28th.

LEAVES A WIDOW AND ONE DAUGHTER.

Dr. J. H. W. Frank, one of Breckenridge county's most prominent physicians and farmers, died at his home near Irvington Wednesday, March 28th, and was buried the next day by the masonic order of which he was highly respected member and an ardent supporter.

Dr. Frank was born, reared and educated in Washington, D. C. He lived some time in Nashville, Tenn., where he engaged in newspaper work. From there he moved to Breckenridge county about 1855 and engaged in the practice of medicine with his brother-in-law, Dr. Houston, near Clifton Mills.

He owned a fine farm near Irvington to which he has devoted all his time since ill health compelled him to give up the practice of medicine. He was especially fond of flowers and had a flower garden, two acres in extent, which was his greatest pride and delight.

Dr. Frank devoted much time and thought to the study of masonry, and received some of the highest marks of favor ever bestowed by that fraternity. He was a Royal Arch Mason and the first High Priest of the Cloverport chapter of masonry.

He is survived by his wife who was the Widow Dent, nee Miss Meador, and one daughter, Mrs. D. O. Heron.

A DOUBLE BEREAVEMENT.

Mr. And Mrs. Clarence Keith Lose Two Little Sons In One Week.

Twice in one week the death angel came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Keith and robbed them of two little children. Everything possible was done to relieve the suffering and prolong the lives of these bright little ones, but to no avail.

These doubly bereaved parents have the deepest sympathy of the whole community in the loss of their two children.

SALE AT HITE'S RUN.

Mrs. N. Carney Disposes Of Her Farm, Stock and Household Goods.

GOOD PRICES PREVAIL.

Owing to the bright spring day and to the fact that the sale was advertised in the News, a large crowd gathered at the home of Mrs. N. Carney near Hite's Run, Wednesday, March 28th, to be present at the sale of her farm, stock and household goods.

Mrs. Carney has lived on this place thirty-three years, and the sale was occasioned by her contemplated move, with her three daughters, to Enid, Oklahoma, where two of her children already reside. The Carney family is of Irish extraction and has always stood high in the community where they live. Their neighbors and friends deeply regret their departure.

Pat Dillon, of Hardinsburg, was the clerk at the sale and the good prices—about half of which were in cash—show that money is plentiful in this county.

The farm, 317 acres, was sold to the Jess T. company for $1,000; three ewes and 10 lambs for $80; to Theo. Flood; 9 big hogs, $35 a head; to Dennis Flood; one mare for $25; to Joe Beavin; 1 horse, 11 years old, blind in one eye for $40; to Andrew Elder; 1 male 10 years old, 103 pounds high, for $61.50; J. ## TIME FOR ACTION.

Let the Man of This County Denounce the Fraud Which Now Envelopes the State.

From an Irvington Correspondent.

The time is ripe for action. We need no revolution in Kentucky, no armed opposition to this overthrow of civil government in our once proud commonwealth. Let the people, regardless of political affiliation, rise in their might and in the name of outraged justice, denounce the proceedings of those persons, who under the guise of law, and under the domination and dictatorship of an Ohio Republican, have deprived Kentucky citizens of their liberty, endangered their lives, and have by their high handed proceedings caused the liberty loving people of our state to stand aghast at such a usurpation of power and such a travesty on the name of government.

It is unnecessary and cowardly long to delay. The time and circumstances demand action. Let old Breckenridge take the initiative.

Let all her citizens who love liberty, justice, "a government of the people, for the people, by the people," come together in mass meeting at an early date and demand a righting of these wrongs, demand that justice be once more impartially meted out to all our citizens. The lives of the people animated by a consciousness of right is mighty and will prevail.

JUSTICE TO THE NEGRO.

Saloon License Will Not Be Used to Build a School-house For the Negro.

DEVISE ANOTHER METHOD.

EDITOR OF THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS:—I had the pleasure of attending the educational meeting at the colored Baptist church on Monday night last, the subject for discussion being whether or not whiskey was a benefit to this city. Many good arguments were advanced against the open saloon, and much falderal was made in favor of it.

I wish merely to notice an argument advanced by one of the speakers, and that is that the saloon tax would build the colored people a school house. We all know that this city has had the saloon license for many years, save one, and our City Fathers made no effort to build a school house for our colored brother. In fact we never hear of this colored school building except at a councilman's election for an election for temperance and decency, as we are now having. It is now being aired by the month pieces of the whiskey men in the shape of colored birds, for they are not men.

GAS AT GRAHAMTON.

A Heavy Flow Attained At Depth Of Only One Hundred and Seventy-eight Feet.

Grahamton, Ky.—Investigation has proven it nothing unusual to find natural gas anywhere in the gas belt of the Northwest. J. M. Allen, of Cynthiana, Meade county, but that this result should be attained at a depth of only 178 feet below the surface is certainly unprecedented. Yet it is at this depth that gas has been found in abundance at Grahamton, and in a deposit of state, like what is known in any boring in the country. When penetrating this strata to a distance of only four feet, the drill, weighing 500 pounds, was thrown entirely from its place and to a height of several feet above the surface of the ground, while the gas issued with such a roar as to be heard a half a mile distant, a alarming the people of the town with the belief that the boilers of the mill had leaked.

The flow has continued unabated, and with the same force and volume for ten days, affording ample fuel for all steam purposes to run the mill and heat the entire building of four stories, 40x140 feet in size.

The Grahamton Manufacturing Company will bore another well about half way between the cotton mill and the site of their former wooden mill, harnessed some years ago.—Courier Journal.

Avoid Contact With Sick Pats.

Dogs and monkeys are subject to tuberculosis and are said to be capable of communicating the infection to human beings. A large number of the animals that die in captivity fall victims to the same disease. Parrots suffer from a malarial pneumonia to themselves. The bacillus that causes it is thought to originate from man. Cats have been known to be the carriers of diptheria, and possibly of scarlet fever and other infectious diseases. Great care should be taken during an epidemic to keep pet animals out of the reach of infection, or else away from the children, and at any time a bird or animal that seems ill should be at once isolated.—April Ladies' Home Journal.

If some of our business men who have the success of this town at heart would contribute a few hundred dollars toward the building of a new manufacturing of some description, it would result in much good. Politics is all right in its place, but that which gives steady employment to labor and distributes money among the working classes makes town quicker than anything else.

A WHOLE VILLAGE

Attacked by Grip—One Family Escapes by Using Pe-ru-na.

WINONA, BRANK CO., IND.
During the winter I and my family of six were taken with the grippe. The disease was very prevalent at that time in the village where I resided, nearly everyone being sick with it. Our doctors treated it as best they could, but were very unsuccessful in the treatment. As soon as my family were taken sick I went to the drugstore and bought six bottles of Pe-ru-na, and we all took it according to the directions given on the bottles and although our cases seemed to be more than usually violent in the onset, yet our recovery was prompt, and we were all well much sooner than those who were treated by the regular physicians.

Many people died of this grippe during this epidemic, and few if any were sick so short a time as myself and family. After we were all well we had one bottle of Pe-ru-na left.

BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

NOTHING BETTER

For Worn Out and Unused Land
Than The Cow Pea and Soy Bean.

RAISE YOUR OWN HAY.

EDITOR BRECKENRIDGE NEWS:—Though I realize that unshaded advice is rarely taken or appreciated, when I see the vast number of wagons going to the country with hay, I cannot refrain from speaking a few words of admonition at this time when all good farmers are mapping out their plans for the season's work.

I would ask every man who is buying hay to consider the fact that he is buying hay to use at home. This can be done in two ways. One is to raise wheat or oats on his own farm. In talking with parties who buy hay, some say, "I haven't ground enough." Others say, "My clover all died, I did not get it stored; others say "Timothy won't grow for me."

Now these are facts and I would suggest that we quit fooling with crops not adapted to our soil and surroundings, plant something we can grow and on ground we are now planning for another crop. In this way we will grow better and cheaper hay and are hauling too.

Take the ground you have mapped out for oats. Wait until the ground is dry and in good order to work before plowing. Break close and deep and thoroughly harrow before sowing hay. As oats are harvested shoot in straight rows from fence to fence, either break immediately, or disc, harrow and break thoroughly; then sow from 1 to 1½ bushels of peas or beans. If the ground is capable of growing a fair crop of oats, sow beans medium; they will make more per acre than peas and are richer.

If seed in your object, beans will make more than peas and in addition, if properly cut and cured, will produce a hay crop better and have more feeding value than any timothy you can buy. If number one hay is the object, cut as hay while in bloom or soon after, and you have a hay that for stock cannot be excelled.

Now, if you sow oats on ground too often sown to oats or too badly abused and worn in bring enough oats to make the seed sow, I would suggest that you sow the whippoorwill pea. This variety will usually mature a good hay crop to be cut when the peas are first turning ripe or it will make a seed crop with the straw a fine feed as hay.

To cure for hay, cut down in good weather and let sun until you cannot twist water out of it. Then put it in a tight barn as soon as possible or let wilt and put in narrow piles to leave several days. Then turn out in sun two or three hours as you would clover and hays. With peas and beans, like the clover plant, the stem and leaves are the most valuable part and should be saved in such a way as to secure all of them.

Now this oat ground growing either peas or beans will be in ideal order for wheat and will be in far better condition every way than the oat stubble without this crop. They will fill the ground with plant food for the wheat which will more than repay you for your trouble and expense.

The price of the bean and pea seed differs many from making this crop. The price is high and is going higher as soon as this growth is on the increase as it is now. There are car loads being unloaded at stations all over the country where heretofore there were only a few yalmy bushels. Make an estimate of what the tons of hay cost with cost of hauling over these roads added, and see if it is much less than the cost of this seed with the attendant improvement to your land, especially through the hot, dry weather, taken into consideration. Anyone can buy a peck of peas and a half bushel of beans, unless he smokes, chews or likes too many drinks. He might deprive himself of one circus ticket by this seed, cultivate and raise enough to plant a whole farm the next year.

People waiting to get the seed cheaper reminds me of the man who waited all day by the ground hog hole to see it come out, while it cunningly came out another way. The seed grown at home on our own soil, acclimated and adapted to our wants, is worth much more to us than that bought in the market. The foreign seed may not be of our climate and latitude and was probably grown on a soil of an entirely different formation and properties. The home grown seed will give you many times more seed and ripe, rich natural hay or fertilizer.

The worn, thin, abandoned fields are spots where the pea and bean can be used to an advantage. These fields are used for nothing but pasture for farm stock and are covered with nothing but brown grass, gullies and pernicious bushes. Prepare these fields for cultivation and sow one and a half bushels of peas in the spring with 150 lbs. of fertilizer composed of 15 pounds of acid phosphate and 10 pounds of muriate potash. This will produce good green grass the first year. Sow in May, 1½ bushels to the acre, in the early fall or late summer. The stock tramping over this will cover sufficiently and make fine fall grazing. Fill up the washed and plowed land. In this way you secure good grazing with a constant improvement of your soil.

Sometimes ago the Gulton correspondent of this paper compared the soy bean to crimson clover. In some localities this would not be a bad comparison for crimson clover has been to farmers in some places a great boon. I would say to this correspondent that one swallow does not make a spring. The weather conditions of 1899 were almost unprecedented. If the gentleman from Gulton has been farming long, he has probably made failures in clover, wheat and corn; yet he does not condemn them, but says these things are failures. Though frost, drought, bugs and many other things often cause failures, the bean is no longer an experiment. It is being grown on all soils and in all climates. In this age a farmer's prosperity depends on growing and the more he can grow at home the better off both he and his stock are.

Now, Mr. Editor, I will say I have so good for sale but the farmer who raises some can at least get enough to raise seed. I would suggest to those who are buying hay to take their time and compare the feeding value of the hay with the feeding value of the pea and bean hay which they can raise at home and have a catch crop besides.

After LaGrippe—What?
Usually a racking cough and a general feeling of weakness. Foley's Honey and Tar is guaranteed to cure the "grippe cough," and make you strong and well.—Moorman & Owen

To "Suck."
This word is in constant use in Northamptonshire, England. It has two meanings, one being "to draw," e.g., "I'll suck a stone at you." A favorite diversion among boys is "sucking" birds. They proceed along each side, all armed with stones, with which they unmercifully pelt, or "suck," any poor bird they come across. The other meaning of the word is "to beat or to clout;" e.g., "I'll fetch you a sock of the ear-hole."

I have known "sock" in this connection all my life, and it is sometimes now used here. "I'll sock him," I've heard him belted, and "I got a good socking" are common forms. A formidable fighter is called a "belly-sock." "Socking" is common when speaking of "winning" and "losing" and "to give one a socking," meaning "to give one a good beating," is in common use in East Anglia. It is also "to pull up your socks" for "make haste" and "set to work."

A note in the heel of a sock or stocking is a well known action of life preserver or taker.—Notes and Queries.

LaGrippe coughs often continue for months and sometimes lead to fatal results after the patient is supposed to have passed the danger point. Foley's Honey and Tar affords positive protection and security from these coughs.

The Rooster Was Cured.

A Rockland young man is the owner of a smart rooster and has long entertained suspicion that the bird might have inherited some characteristics from some long forgotten ancestor. To apply this theory is an actual test he went home the other night, surreptitiously contrived the parrot mirror into the hen pen and held it before the gaze of the wondering rooster. The rooster, who had not kept long in suspense as to the bird's fighting qualities. After a brief, incredulous glance at the proud reflection in the glass the rooster descended upon the object with spurs set and wrath gleaming from each beaklike eye. There were a crash, a smash and a clatter, and when the dust and feathers cleared away the young sportsman stood, a dismayed spectator, in the center of a pile of ruins formed by broken mirror, slabs and pulverized glass. He is now satisfied with the rooster, but how he squared himself about the broken mirror is not known.—Bangor Whig and Courier.

Noted Healer in Town.
The greatest healer of modern times is Banner-Salve for Cuts, wounds, sores, piles and skin diseases. It is guaranteed.—Moorman & Owen.

Fairly Good Time.
Seated around a Topeka railroad lunch counter the other day were four old hants. Fe engineers. They were telling of fast runs. Three of them had told their stories. "The fastest run I ever made," said the fourth, after listening to the tale of the others, "was between Topeka and Emporia not long ago. It was a bright moonlight night. We were behind when we pulled out of Topeka and had orders to make up all lost time between here and Emporia. After reaching the top of the Pauline Hill I pulled the throttle wide open and let her go. The old engine fairly ate up the track. When we stopped at Emporia, I looked back a mile or so and saw something black approaching me. I could not think what it was. I watched it closely. Finally it came up opposite the engine and stopped. It was the shadow of the train."—Kansas City Journal.

A Little Bit Too Sensitive.
This cold, hard world has few souls as sensitive as a young man who killed himself in Paris the other day. His home was in Lyons, and his father had given to him $30,000 francs, or $5,000, to establish a branch office of their business in Paris. After he had been in Paris for several days, he learned home ceased, and he disappeared from the little circle of friends that he had made. He had seemed a quiet, steady fellow, and he had chosen his new associates with discretion. When they missed him, they wrote to his father, supposing that he knew where his son was. The father, however, was wary, and the police were summoned and a search made of his apartments. On the bed in his room was found his dead body, with a note by his side, which said:

"I have lost 25,000 francs of the sum that my father intrusted to me, and as I would not have it believed that I have squandered the money I will kill myself." This furnished a clue, but nothing more could be learned for several days. Finally, when searching the rooms for the young man's property, his pocketbook, with the 25,000 francs, was found in a corner of the bureau drawer, where he had put it and then forgotten.

"I was nearly dead with dyspepsia, tried doctors, visited mineral springs, and grew worse. I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. That cured me. It digests what you eat. Cures indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn and general dyspepsia.—A. R. Fisher.

Did She Get the Hair?
It was a usual thing, of course, and some day she will doubtless get even with him.

She saw him take a piece of paper from his pocket, carefully fold it up, put it in an envelope and then place the envelope in one of the far corners of the drawer of the library table.

"What's that?" she asked.

"Oh, nothing of any consequence," he replied.

Now, if he had simply thrown it carelessly into the drawer she would have thought nothing of it, but the care he took to put it clear over to the far corner and the fact that he secured it at ease after he found that his action had been observed aroused her curiosity. She wondered what it was, and she reasoned with herself that he had said it was "nothing of importance," so he would have nobody but himself to blame if she took a look at it. She was justified in inferring from his words that there was no reason why she should not. And this is what she read scribbled on a piece of paper:

"I'll bet you a new hat your curiosity will not permit you to let this alone." It was a taunting prediction in which to place a woman. How could she claim the new hat without giving herself away?—Chicago Post.

Agents on salary of $15.00 per week and expenses; the greatest agent ever produced; every stock and poultry raiser pays it on sight. Hustlers wanted. Referenced. Address: Walter, American Mfg. Co. Terre Haute, Ind.

Sensitiveness.
A stewardess, after 15 years' service on one of the transatlantic liners—and an opinion on the subject from a person in her position is undoubtedly to be respected—has this to say about sensitiveness: "Almost everybody is a little sick, but a great many more persons could be less sick than they are if they would only be careful for a day or two before they sail. Lots of folks going off to Europe eat big dinners and luncheons for two or three days before they start, and as soon as they get the motion of the waves, they have really a bilious attack. Sometimes when the crossing is very rough and I have been a little careless in my diet I feel the motion myself, but never when I take proper care. At the slightest dizziness or nausea I stop eating anything at all for eight or ten hours, and above all I never touch tea at that time. It is the overeating usually before they come on board that makes all the trouble."—New York Post.

In bed, had not sat up for six months; was under a doctor's treatment all the time, but it did me no good. I had almost given up in despair, but your Vegetable Compound has made me feel like a new woman. I cannot thank you enough. I would advise any woman who is afflicted as I have been to write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and get her advice.

Mrs. P. H. Allen, 419 Nebraska Ave., Toledo, Ohio, writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Change of life was working on me. My kidneys and bladder were affected. I had been confined to the house all summer, not able to stand on my feet for any length of time. Terrible pains when urinating and an itching that nearly drove me wild. I had tried many remedies. I told my husband I had great faith in you and he got me a bottle; am now on my fourth bottle. I feel that I am entirely cured. I can work all day. I can hardly realize that such a wonderful cure is possible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine for women."

Idea.

Idea is often poor ghosts; our sun-dried eyes cannot make themselves fast. But sometimes they are made flesh; they breathe upon us with warm breath, they touch us with soft responsive hands, they look at us with sad, sincere eyes, and speak to us in appealing tones; they are clothed in a living human soul, with all its conflicts, its faith and its love.

Then their presence is a power that they shake us like a passion, and we are drawn after them with gentle compulsion, as flame is drawn to flame.—George Eliot.

Oh, you who have a mother dead,
Let her name give her pain,
But cherish and love her all your life
Till you meet her here again.

Then when she's called to go away
Across Death's dark and troubled tide,
In pain and anguish you need not say
"I could never have her again."

I'm lonely since my mother died
Though friend and kindred gather near;
I cannot catch the rising sun
Or watch the silent hearted stars.

My ever loving soul to guide
Oh, not to die because we miss her
Till I meet her in the life beyond.
